

DISCOVERING WHO'S WHO: Portrait Painting

VICTORIAN ENGLAND: THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

WHAT WE LEARNED:

- We learned that the Victorian time period began with Queen Victoria's ascension to the throne in 1837 and ended at her death in 1901.
- We looked at family portraits, individual portraits, and children's portraits to learn about several noteworthy Victorians.
- We discovered how portrait painters use poses and settings to highlight details about their subjects.

ART ACTIVITY: Silhouette Portraits

Today your young artist learned about portraiture during the Victorian era. We explored formal and informal portraits by historic artists like Franz Xaver Winterhalter, William Powell Frith, and John Collier. We also learned about artists like William MacDuff, Mary Gow, and Augustus Mulready who specialized in children's portraits. Plus, we discovered that many families in the Victorian age couldn't afford to hire a painter to capture an image of their family members. Instead, they made their own silhouettes by tracing one another's shadows. These silhouettes became known as at the "poor man's portraiture." We borrowed that concept to create our own silhouette portraits today. Students were photographed upon arrival, and they transferred the outlines of those printed photos onto black paper. The children put their cutting skills to the test to create these one-of-a-kind collages.

SCIENCE AND ART:

Although photography as we know it began in the Victorian period, the science behind the process can be traced back centuries.

- Click HERE to watch a short video on "Before Photography" [time: 06:22].
- After your viewing, click HERE and follow the directions to create your own pinhole camera.

BOOK Nook

Charles Dickens: England's Most Captivating Storyteller
by Catherine Wells-Cole

A CLOSER LOOK:

Just as Charles Dickens used stories to highlight the needs of the poor, painter Augustus Mulready used paintings. Carefully look at each of the portraits below. Then choose a favorite and take a closer look at the scene.

- What do you notice about the characters' expressions and poses?
- Do the title and setting help you understand more of their "story"?
- Once you have finished your examination, write a caption for the picture that describes what you observed and how you feel about the scene portrayed.

A Passing Cloud,
Augustus Mulready

Uncared For,
Augustus Mulready

A London Jo,
Augustus Mulready

FOR Parents

In his comprehensive book Victorian Painters, Christopher Wood notes, "To write a history of the Victorian period is to write of England's golden age. Victoria's reign saw England's imperial, political, naval, and mercantile power reach its height. As so often in history, this produced a correspondingly brilliant flowering of the arts. It was not only prolific but dazzlingly varied." The art and personalities we cover throughout these lessons are designed to inspire your child's curiosity and encourage further exploration into this diverse and fascinating time period.

CONNECTIONS AT HOME:

Create a Family Portrait!

Did you know that your brain processes images 60,000 times faster than words? Wow! A picture really is worth a thousand words! So, let's see if you can "introduce" one (or all) of your family members to friends by capturing them in a photograph.

Here are some things to think about as you create your set and pose your subject(s):

- Will your portrait be formal or informal?
- Do you want the background to be carefully staged or casual? Whether carefully staged or casual, what will the mood be—elegant, funny, creative?
- How do you want your subject to dress, in their Sunday best, in everyday attire, or maybe even in costume!
- How will you pose them? Should they have props?
- How do you want to light them? (The mood you want to create can help you decide this.)

Once you've taken your shot, let other family members write captions. Which of their captions best describes what you were trying to achieve? Have fun and be sure to share your portrait with friends!

ADDITIONAL Resources

- Who was Victoria? by Jim Gigliotti, Illustrations by Max Hergenrother
- Queen Victoria: The Inspiring Story of a Genius by Reza Nazari
- Oliver Twist: The Classic Story Plus Fascinating Background Facts and Photographs, Dorling Kindersley Classics
- Watch this brief video: Lord Shaftesbury: Everyone A Child Should Know by Clare Heath-Whyte
- View this Classic Book Summary: *Oliver Twist
- Look at this Ted-Ed video: Why Should You Read Charles Dickens?
- Watch this interesting video lesson by The Touring Teacher: Children At Work: 19th Century for Kids

Due to the changing nature of web resources, M&G strongly urges you as the parent to preview these sites before your child accesses them. The fact that these sites are available on this handout does not imply that M&G endorses their content from the standpoint of morals, philosophy, theology, or scientific hypotheses.

M&G Educational Mission:

Through tours, events, and publications, the Museum & Gallery seeks to partner with educators in fulfilling all of the National Visual Arts Content Standards. By integrating art into the core curriculum, M&G's goals are to teach children to value the arts, to communicate through the arts, to become creative problem solvers through the inclusion of STEAM-related concepts and fully-developed STEAM units, to understand history and culture in light of the arts, to improve literary interest and understanding through visual storytelling, to critique the arts, and to develop an aesthetic awareness of the arts. Through fulfilling the mission, M&G is able to help develop citizens who have the ability to think, feel, and understand the world in which they live.

